Reiki Master Training

This final attunement is for those who have practiced at Level Two Reiki for at least a year and feel a vocation to heal and possibly teach. Becoming a Reiki Master is a considered decision, a commitment to personal growth at the deepest levels, and often results in profound life changes.

Reiki begins to interact with all parts of your life – you find that you truly begin “to live” Reiki. Your failings and foibles won’t vanish; Reiki Masters are just ordinary people with daily challenges. But choosing to become a Reiki Master means embarking upon a personal journey that leads you to true mastery of your own healing and your own life, as well as being a compassionate guide to others.

Although lifelong mentoring is provided to students at this level on an as-desired basis, complete Reiki Master training takes place over two one-day classes. There are two parts to Reiki Master Training, and not all students pursue both parts of the training.

Reiki Master Training Part One – Also called “Advanced Reiki Training,” this is the final level of training in the traditional Usui Reiki System of Natural Healing and the student becomes a Reiki Master (RM). The focus of this one-day class day is the Master Attunement, which allows you to channel an amount of Reiki energy that is four times greater than Level Two and 16 times greater than Level One. You are trained in the use of Master level energy, the Master Symbol, and Reiki techniques for psychic surgery. At the end of this class, the student is no longer a student of the teacher, but rather a peer.

Reiki Master Teacher Training Part Two – Those who feel a calling to teach on either a full-time or part-time basis continue on to the second part of training, in which the student becomes a Reiki Master Teacher (RMT). The focus of this one-day class is learning and practicing how to give Reiki attunements, successfully initiating students to become Reiki healers. You also learn how to teach Reiki, the spiritual and business responsibilities of being a Reiki Master Teacher, how to give a Healing Attunement, and ongoing responsibility for personal and spiritual development.

Students who apply for Reiki Master and Reiki Master Teacher training are interviewed extensively about their readiness and intentions before they are accepted.
